

Active Water Conservation Plans Issued Pursuant to Env-Wq 2101

The following table is a list of active water conservation plans (WCPs) issued pursuant to the Water Conservation rules, Env-Wq 2101. The water conservation rules apply to all new permit applicants and applications for water withdrawals proposed after May 14, 2005, including: new sources of groundwater for community water systems, new sources of groundwater for bulk and bottled water operations, new sources of groundwater that exceed 57,600 gallons over any 24-hour period, and new surface water sources associated with projects that require a water quality certification pursuant to Section 401 of the Clean Water Act.

The table below identifies the water user, the date the WCP was approved, and the date the source was approved that triggered the requirement to implement water conservation best management practices. It should be noted that other water users have approved WCPs but do not appear below because the respective water source has not received approval and/or the source is not online. Please contact the Water Conservation Program for additional information.
